1. Background:-

With the objective of providing free veterinary healthcare services to farmers and livestock owners in rural areas and creating awareness about scientific animal husbandry practices, a Free Cattle Check-up and Treatment Camp was organized.

2. Objectives:-

1. To provide free health check-ups and treatment for livestock
2. To create awareness about vaccination and deworming
3. To develop social responsibility and service attitude among students

A total of 88 animals were examined and treated during the camp. The animals included Cows, Buffaloes, Bullocks, Dogs, and Rabbits.

The following services were provided:-

1. General health examination
2. Vaccination
3. Deworming
4. Treatment of skin diseases and hoof problems

4. Contribution of Officials and Staff:-

The camp was successfully conducted with the valuable support of veterinary experts from the Animal Husbandry Department, Mukhed, including the Assistant Commissioner, Veterinary Officers, and their support staff, who carried out examinations and treatments. The Head of the Department of Zoology, faculty members, the NSS Programme Officer, and NSS volunteers actively participated in planning, registration, coordination, and smooth execution of the camp.

5. Outcomes and Impact:-

1. Farmers received free veterinary services, resulting in financial savings.
2. Early diagnosis and timely treatment helped prevent serious diseases.
3. Awareness regarding vaccination, deworming, and mineral supplementation was enhanced.
4. Students developed a sense of social commitment and practical exposure to community Service.

6. Conclusion:-

1. The camp received an enthusiastic response from local farmers and livestock owners.
2. With collective efforts and cooperation, the activity was completed successfully.
3. The institution expressed its commitment to organizing similar outreach programs in the future for the welfare of rural communities.
